

McMullan Is New Mustang Times Editor

The Board of Directors of The Mustang Club of America has named Steve McMullan as the new editor of the organization's monthly magazine, The Mustang Times.

The appointment followed the resignation of Brad Bowling as editor. In addition, Teresa Vickery has also resigned as assistant editor and advertising manager.

McMullan will also assume the duties of advertising manager for the immediate future.

A veteran Georgia newspaper editor, McMullan has more than 20 years of journalism experience.

During his career he has held positions of increasing responsibility with various suburban newspapers.

Most recently, McMullan was vice president and executive editor of The Gwinnett Daily News, a 40,000-circulation daily in Lawrenceville, Ga. He has also served as editor and managing editor of The Marietta Daily Journal in Marietta, Ga. and was a staff writer for numerous publications, including The South Dade (Fla.) News-Leader and the Jackson (Tenn.) Sun.

A graduate of Miami-Dade College, McMullan also attended Georgia State University in Atlanta. He is a resident of Snellville, Ga.

During his newspaper career, he won numerous writing, editing and layout awards from the Georgia Press Association, United Press International and various other organizations. Under his direction, both the Marietta Daily Journal and the Gwinnett Daily News were repeatedly judged "best daily newspapers" in their class by the Georgia Press Association.

A native of Atlanta, McMullan is president and owner of Steve McMullan & Associates, an Atlanta-area-based advertising and public relations firm.

"I am pleased that the board of directors of The Mustang Club of America has selected me to fill the role of editor of The Mustang Times," McMullan said.

"I feel I am inheriting a publication of excellent quality and rich tradition, and I hope in the coming months that we can continue to provide our readers with interesting and useful information. I also hope to expand the scope of the publication by soliciting more technical articles from experienced professionals and by encouraging regional groups across the country to view The Mustang Times as their primary vehicle for keeping Mustang lovers informed of the special events, shows and activities of local clubs.

"I welcome any and all suggestions and criticisms from our readers and pledge to be responsive to your comments. In my view, the sole purpose of The Mustang Times is to serve the needs of its readers."

Comments, suggestions, criticisms, news articles, features and photographs can be submitted to The Mustang Times by mail. Please address your submissions to: The Editor, The Mustang Times, P.O. Box 447, Lithonia, Ga. 30058.
