25th Anniversary Prototype Is Deep Emerald Green Metallic

New '90 Boss 429 Ahead?

By MIKE WORTHY
Assistant Editor

A well-placed source at Ford Motor Company released a bit of information recently that stopped me dead in my tracks.

According to this source, a feasibility study to assess the possibility of a limited production big block powered Mustang has been in the works at Ford. There appears to be a possibility of a limited run of approximately 500 Mustangs powered by an engine built on the 429 or 460 configuration and sporting the boss nameplate may be made during the 1990 calendar year.

It was speculated that this move could be in answer to General Motors introduction of its "new Killer Corvette", also in limited production. At this point nothing is concrete, but what a boss idea!

The spring of 1990 will also see a limited production anniversary Mustang. The prototype was shown this summer to Ford dealers around the country and is pictured here.

The LX body convertible will feature a white leather interior, white top and a special clearcoat paint: deep emerald green metallic. No other Mustang will wear this special color. At this time it is uncertain if the production models will have special striping or badges to announce the 25th anniversary status, but judging from color photographs, a white stripe down the lower sides of this Pony would make a nice touch.
