30 Years Ago

When the Mustang was first introduced, it created a wave of enthusiasm that has not yet crested.

On the very first day the car was offered for sale, dealers were buried in 22,000 orders.

At a Texas dealers 15 potential customers bid on the same Mustang. The winner insisted on sleeping in that car overnight to protect it while he waited for his check to clear the next morning.

In Chicago, a show room showroom closed early and called the police when Mustang prospects stormed the dealership.

A restaurant owner invited his customers to sample his "hotcakes that were selling like Mustangs".

Mustang crazed parents bought 93,000 pedal powered children's Mustangs during the Christmas of 1964.

The Mustang outpaced its entire first year sales estimates in its first four months.

By March of 1966, Ford had sold its 1,000,000th Mustang.
