

2,400 Miles And Counting

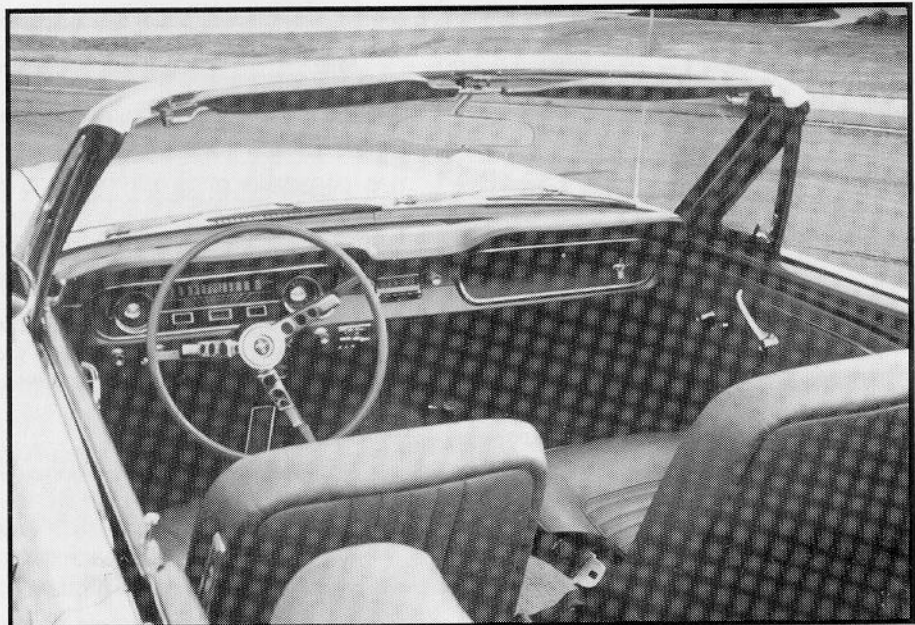

by Roger Johnson

Indiana Jones would have willingly played with snakes to find a treasure like the one Richard Bernier (MCA# 33894) discovered.

Fortunately for Richard, laying his hands on this 2,400 mile Mustang was much easier than what Dr. Jones is used to. There were no snakes, no natives with blow guns, and no 3,000 year old tombs rigged for destruction. It all simply started 2 years ago with a small ad in a Reno newspaper.

The Mustang's owner said '64-1/2 Mustang was like new. Naturally, this was enough to get any Mustang enthusiast mounted up, and heading down the road for a look.

Tucked neatly into a garage was the Wimbeldon White convertible. Richard could scarcely believe his eyes, let alone his luck. It was owned by a local contractor who bought the car new. After precious little use, the Mustang was completely freashened up by its original owner. This mild restoration (a restoration to offset the effects of time, not wear) included an complete mechanical overhaul as well. The owner wanted to make the car brand new all over again. It's a task not necessarily impossible when starting with such an ultra low mileage vehicle.

Once new again, the car was simply 'stored' for 4 years. The original owner sadly came to grips with the fact he had no time to enjoy this car. And even though his daughter was turning sixteen and assumed she'd be driving the Mustang, dad realized the car (and his daughter) would be better off with the convertible in the hands of a more experienced driver, someone who would appreciate this car more than any 16 year old possibly could.

Richard Bernier was just such a person. He bought the car on sight. The 'Stang has rich looking tan interior, and an electric top. A 200 inch 6 cylinder and 4-speed propel the car. You can see this treasure at Reno's "Hot August Nights" event August 2-6th. Just watch out for a man in a brown leather jacket and a ten foot bull whip.
