

Mustang Spirit

Every so often in the Mustang experience an event happens that needs to be passed on to fellow Mustangers.

Such an event was my recent purchase of a 1968 coupe, in unrestored condition, from K.A.R. Automotive Group, Inc.

First off, the salesperson, Mr. George Waydo, was courteous, truthful, and helpful. He answered all my inquiries patiently sensing my love of Mustangs! The technicians and staff are also super people. But what makes this company excel, in my mind, is what occurred after they had my check for full payment.

In readying this unrestored car for me, K.A.R. performed well over $2,000 worth of parts and services at no cost to me. I guess their reputation meant a lot to them.

I thought that in this cut-throat business world, a transaction like this needs to be related to fellow Mustangers.

(No, I'm not kidding!)

Unfortunately, you are correct in your assessment of the cut-throat business world as we too have run into such practices more often than we care to think about.

However, there are many wonderful companies out there who are indeed courteous, helpful, and willing to do whatever it takes to please the customer. Many times, though, in our fast-paced everyday existence, we forget to say thank you to these honorable folks. We are delighted that you took the time to pass along such a wonderful experience concerning one of our advertisers.

Now, may we expect photos of your new acquisition in the not-too-distant future?

Not Your Ordinary Mode of Transportation

A year ago I wrote you a letter complaining about torn and incomplete magazines. The way they arrive now is the way they should, complete and in one piece. Thanks for thinking about us foreign subscribers!

In the future I will visit the USA (again) to buy another dream Mustang. I currently own a 260-powered 1964 1/2 hardtop with all the right 1964 1/2 stuff. I plan to upgrade to a fastback some day.

I would also like to visit a Board of Directors meeting just to see some folks for real! Do I have to apply some time before or can I just show my membership card and walk into the Courtyard hotel?

I liked the articles about "In Search of Mustangs" very much. How about some new ones?

The enclosed photo was published in a local Dutch newspaper. The couple in the convertible came out of the wedding chapel and found their Mustang hangin' behind a tow truck. Nothing was wrong with the Mustang. The guy who got married is a police officer who was tricked by his friends from the tow company. So off they went to the wedding party and had a good time!

Thanks for the great magazine. Keep it coming!!

Thank you for writing to us. It is always a pleasure to hear from our members outside the U.S. We're very pleased that the dilemma of torn and incomplete magazines has now been resolved.

You, and all MCA members, are welcome to attend a Board of Directors meeting any time you wish. We hope, though, that you will let us know your schedule so we can "make a fuss" (as Southerners are apt to do) over your presence.

We too hope to hear more from Jim Smart and Jim Haskell with the In Search of Mustangs project. They have accumulated tons of extremely interesting data.

And many thanks for the photo and story on the wedding couple. We always knew a guy had to be hooked before he'd get married, but this goes beyond the call of duty!
