

Brain Twister

by Cliff Sodemann

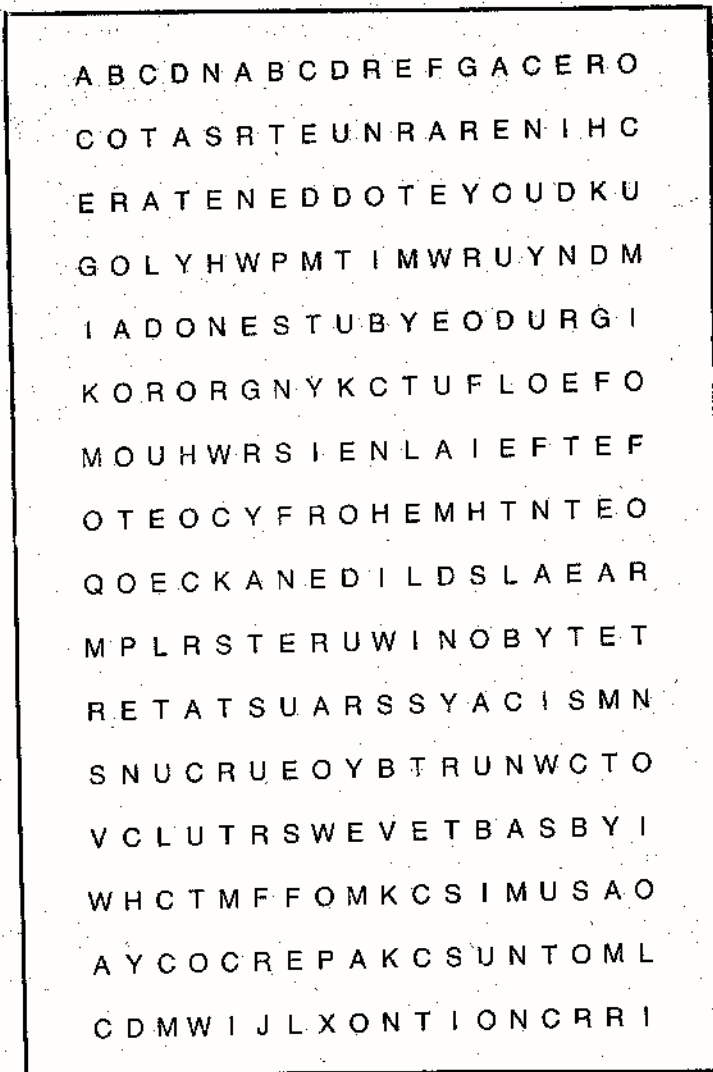

In my lifetime, I have solved many puzzles and I have seen many different types of them. Some were easy and, of course, some were very difficult. Among those that were easy and, in my opinion any child could solve, are the hidden word puzzles, the type that you publish in the Mustang Times every month.

To me, a puzzle should be exactly what it says. Puzzle, as Webster's dictionary defines the word, "is to perplex, bewilder, to exercise one's mind, as over a problem, a toy or problem for testing skill or ingenuity."

Therefore, I have made a puzzle that I defy all Mustang puzzle lovers to solve. The puzzle is of the same variety that you publish, with one small exception. The words in this puzzle not only cross other words but the letters can and do go in different directions as you can see in the illustration.

Have fun!!

Ed. Note: Go right ahead, kids. Think I'll pass.
