

Nick Liblong of Almont, Michigan owns this string of classic ponies. The '66 coupe is a 200 c.i. six with auto and power steering. The '68 aqua convertible boasts a six with power steering and tilt-away wheel. The '64½ is a 289 with power steering, brakes and top.

This one owner factory original '69 Mach I belongs to Steven Munsey of Midway, Tennessee. Powered by a 351-W, this pony is nicknamed "Mule."

HORSE SHOW

West Columbia, South Carolina is home to this green 1967 coupe. Factory options include power steering, automatic, tinted glass, and fog lights. Owner Calvin Gunter has added 14x7 Magnum wheels, Mach I hood scoop, engine chrome, and other personal touches. This daily driver has racked up 180,000 miles!

This '73 convertible is owned by J. C. Conway of Marietta, Georgia. This all-original beauty is powered by a 351-C.

