

This 1964½ Rangoon Red convertible is equipped with a 289-4V and 4-speed transmission. Christian Governor of Richmond, Virginia, drives this pony on sunny days only!

St. Joseph, Missouri, saw its worst floods in 30 years in 1984. Karen Pearson lost her 1980 Pontiac Sunbird in the flood waters, but that turned out to be a blessing in disguise. She replaced the Pontiac with this 31,000 mile, one owner 1966 Wimbledon white coupe. The original spare is still in the trunk, and the 200 inch six is still running strong. Karen plans to bring her pony back up to original specs as soon as possible.

Lewis Sincak of Hightstown, New Jersey, owns these ponies, a '65 coupe and a '65 convertible. Lewis bought the coupe, a maroon six-cylinder 3-speed, for $100.00 in 1973! The convertible, a Caspian blue 289 auto, took four years of hard work to restore — but after paying $150.00 for it in 1978, Lewis doesn't complain!

This totally restored 1965 convertible is a far cry from the totally wrecked version John Schofield started work on over two and a half years ago. Look for more on this pony in future Times.
